

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Zoltán György BÁCS, Dr. jur.

Dr. Zoltán György Bács earned his first university degree in the field of international relations at the Institute of International Relations, Moscow in 1982, and earned his doctorate in 1988 at the József Attila University, Szeged. Since 2015, he is an instructor at the Counter-Terrorism Department in the National University of Public Service. Besides that, he is also a PhD candidate in the Doctoral School of Military Science of the NUPS.

Lt. Col. Karim BOUDADI

Lt. Col. Karim Boudadi is a deputy commander of a Signal Regiment in South Algeria. His professional activity is complemented by an analysis of the security situation in the area and the security responsibilities of its military component. Currently he is a student of the General Staff Training Course of the FMSOT at the National University of Public Service in Budapest.

Lt. Col. Győző CSANÁDI

Lt. Col. Győző Csanádi is a senior officer in the Hungarian MoD/General Staff CIS Branch. He has three Bachelor's Degrees and graduated obtaining a master's degree in Management of Information Systems in 2002. Firstly he served in various field artillery officer commander positions from 1988 until 1997. After acquiring a special degree in Information Technology, he joined the Air Force and continued his work as Radar and Air C2 Information Technologies field-engineer and held other positions until 2007. From 2007 to present he has served as a staff officer dealing with the co-ordination of mainly Air-Force C2 systems' development planning and administrative issues. He was the National Representative of NATO CIS software workgroups, and also fulfilled the position of CIS Chief in EUFOR HQ, Bosnia and Herzegovina. After a four-year NATO position in a Corps level NATO HQ, he continued his service in Hungarian MoD/GS. He frequently publishes scientific articles. His special interests are information technology and information management issues. Since he has a vast experience of various Information Systems management (e.g. NovellNetWare, OpenVMS and UNIX systems) and he is also a programmer, he has a broad and quite detailed view of the military applications in use.

Lt. János CSENGERI

Lt. Csengeri is an assistant lecturer at National University of Public Service. Graduated from Zrínyi Miklós National Defence University in 2009. As an air traffic controller he was working at MH 86. Helicopter Base, Szolnok, from 2009 until 2012. He has a Master's Degree in the field of logistics science. Since October, 2012 he has been working at the National University of Public Service. Currently, as a PhD candidate he is conducting research on airport and their contribution to air operations.

Maj. Sándor FARKAS

Maj. Sándor Farkas is a SOTG commander at HDF 2. vitéz Bertalan Árpád SOF Brigade, holding a Master's Degree in the field of military leadership from the National University of Public Services.

Lt. Col. Gábor HANGYA, PhD

Lt. Col. Gábor Hangya is serving as a deputy commander of the Hungarian Defence Forces Civil-Military Cooperation and Psychological Operations Centre (HDF CMCPOC). Currently he is attending the general staff course at the Faculty of Military Science and Officer Training of National University of Public Service. His responsibilities as part of the leadership include capability development as well as concept work mostly related to CIMIC and PSYOPS. He has been member of the Hungarian CIMIC family since the establishment of the national capability. He has had different positions within the unit and also served as a staff officer in J9 at the Hungarian Joint Force Command. His conceptual affiliation is coming from the CIMIC Centre of Excellence, where he spent four years as the first Hungarian member of Concepts, Interoperability, Capabilities Branch. During his NATO assignment he was part of custodian group of NATO CIMIC doctrine as well as conceptual projects, such as Civil-Military Interaction (CMI), Stabilisation and Reconstruction (S&R), or Strategic Foresight Analysis (SFA). His mission experience as a CIMIC practitioner is coming from Afghanistan.

Lt. Col. Erika HÉREGI

Lt. Col. Erika Héregi graduated from Master of Sciences in Information Technology in Eötvös Loránd University. She is currently the head of Central Reserve Personnel Registry Division in the HDF Military Administration and Central Registry Command. In her position she is in charge of coordination and implementation of the military administration tasks related to personnel augmentation during conscription.

Csaba Barnabás HORVÁTH, PhD

Csaba Barnabás Horváth is a research assistant at the “Interaction between religions and cultures on the Silk Road” common research group of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences, the Eötvös Loránd University and the University of Szeged and an external researcher of the HDF General Staff Scientific Research Centre. He has a PhD degree in International Relations from the Corvinus University of Budapest. The focus of his research is the geopolitics of the Asia-Pacific Region. He carried out research under different fellowships in Singapore (NUS, ISEAS) Australia (ANU) and in Taiwan (National Chengchi University).

Maj. Attila KASZNÁR, PhD

Maj. Attila Kasznár holds a PhD in Political Sciences from the University of Pécs. He is currently the head of the Counter-Terrorism Department in the National University of Public Service, Institute of National Security. He is an expert of South and South East Asian issues and modern terrorism.

Lt. Col. Sándor NAGY

Lt. Col. Sándor Nagy is the head of the Defence Administration Department at the National Inspectorate General for Civil Protection, National Directorate General for Disaster Management, Ministry of the Interior. He is holding master's degrees in the fields of defence administration and in military leadership from the Miklós Zrínyi National Defence University and the National University of Public Services, where he is a PhD candidate in the Doctoral School of Military Engineering.

Col. Imre PORKOLÁB, PhD

Brigadier General Imre Porkoláb, PhD, is currently serving as NATO Supreme Allied Commander Transformation's representative to the Pentagon. His duties include aligning US and NATO ACT efforts with the Joint Staff, DoD, in the Pentagon, as well as liaising with the Think Tank community in Washington DC. As a Special Forces officer by trade, he has done operational tours in Iraq and Afghanistan and has served in the Hungarian Defence Forces at different command and leadership positions. He holds three masters degrees (International Relations, Military Leadership and Defence Analysis) and a PhD. His research includes organizational transformation and change leadership.

Lt. Col. Zoltán POZDERKA

Lt. Col. Zoltán Pozderka is an operations planning staff officer of the NATO Rapid Deployable Corps, Italy. He is also a PhD candidate in the Doctoral School of Military Science of the National University of Public Services.

István TARRÓSY, PhD

István Tarrósy holds a PhD in Political Science and is Associate Professor of the Department of Political Science and International Studies of the University of Pécs, Hungary. He is Director of the Africa Research Centre.

Fabio VANORIO

Fabio Vanorio is an Executive Officer at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation of the Republic of Italy, where he has served for almost 25 years. He holds a Degree in Economics, and advanced Degrees in Economics and Law of European Communities, Applied Econometrics and Islamic Banking and Insurance. His specializations are International Economics, Applied Econometrics and Economics of National Security. Currently, he is on temporary leave to conduct academic research and resides with his family in New York.

Cpt. Mariann VECSEY

Captain Mariann Vecsey did her MSc in Security and Defence Policy in 2014 on the National University of Public Service, and started PhD studies in 2016. Her field of expertise is Africa. Currently she is an analyst in the NATO Force Integration Unit Hungary J2.

Richard WARNES, PhD

Dr. Richard Warnes is an associate Research Fellow at RAND Europe. His interests lie in the fields of counter-terrorism, counter-insurgency, policing, intelligence and the military, with a doctorate on 'The Significance of Human Factors in Effective Counter-Terrorism'. Between 2008 and 2013 he conducted extensive field research in Iraq and Afghanistan helping evaluate a capacity building project. He previously served in the Metropolitan Police for nine years, including Special Branch and Counter Terrorism Command and for seven years in the Territorial Army, including a tour of Bosnia. He is on the Steering Committee of the European Experts Network on Terrorism Issues (EENeT) and has recently been commissioned as an officer in the Army Reserves.

David WINSTON

David Winston is a Senior Research Fellow for the Asia-Pacific Foundation. He additionally acts as a Project Manager for the Partnership for Peace Consortium creating a CT/CVE reference curriculum to be utilized in security institutions around the world. David is a member of the OSCE's Mobile Training Team of experts and has given lectures for security agency officers in Uzbekistan, at the OSCE Border Management Staff College in Tajikistan and at the NATO COE-DAT in Turkey. His research is focused on counterterrorism, countering violent extremism, Central Asian, Middle East and United States politics. David earned a BA in Political Science from California State University Channel Islands and an MSc in History of International Relations from the London School of Economics.

Gordon Woo, PhD

Gordon Woo, PhD, is a terrorism risk analyst with RMS, London. Since 9/11, he has developed conceptual principles for the quantitative modelling of terrorism risk. He is a regular lecturer at the NATO Centre of Excellence for the Defence against terrorism, Ankara, Turkey. Educated at Cambridge, MIT and Harvard, he is an adjunct professor at Nanyang Technological University, Singapore, and a visiting professor at University College London.

Ben ZWEIBELSON

Ben Zweibelson is the Program Director for Special Operations Forces (SOF) Design Education at the Joint Special Operations University (JSOU) in the U.S. Special Operations Command (USSOCOM) located in Tampa, Florida. He is also a 3rd year doctoral student with the Australian National University where he is focused on the postmodern military design movement across the Anglosphere. Ben is a retired U.S. Army Infantry Officer with over 22 years combined service and multiple combat tours in Iraq and Afghanistan. Ben holds an undergraduate degree in Graphic Design with the University of Connecticut, a Masters in Liberal Arts with the Louisiana State University, a Masters in Military Arts and Sciences from the Air Command and Staff College, and a Masters in Military Operational Arts and Sciences (focusing on military design) from the U.S. Army School of Advanced Military Studies. He is widely published and has lectured or facilitated design across international military, SOF, and conventional forces from the Academy level to War Colleges. Ben resides in Tampa, Florida with his wife Jill and their three children.