

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Daniela DINCAO

d.dincao3@gmail.com

She holds a Bachelor's Degree in Linguistic and Cultural Mediation from the University of Milan. She was dealing with the Sahrawi culture.

2nd Lt. Marcin GORNIKIEWICZ, PhD

marcingornikiewicz2014@gmail.com

2nd Lt Gornikiewicz is a member of military staff within the International Cooperation Department at the Military University of Technology in Warsaw, Poland. He joined the army for a two-years contract and before was a civilian expert in several fields connected with security and strategic studies: East and South-East Asia security culture, PSYOPS and international security forecasting. He has also a great pleasure to be a fellow within the Taiwan Fellowship Program as well as a speaker for several international conferences all over the world. Currently he is working on new international forecasting model based on culture codes of behaviour, thinking and acting, dedicated to security studies.

Csaba Barnabas HORVÁTH, PhD

keluolang@hotmail.com

Csaba Barnabas Horvath is an external researcher of the HDF General Staff Scientific Research Center, as well as of the Modern East Asia Research Group of Pazmany Peter Catholic University. He has a PhD degree in International Relations from the Corvinus University of Budapest. The focus of his research is the geopolitics of the Asia-Pacific. He carried out research under different fellowships in Singapore (NUS, ISEAS) Australia (ANU) and in Taiwan (National Chengchi University).

Lt. Col. (GS) Wolfgang Paul ILLNER, DEUA

wolfillner@gmail.com

Lt. Col. Illner will be the new German Defence Attaché in Hungary in September 2017. He has been holding a degree in Economics in Leadership and Management from the Nanyang Technological University in Singapore since 2008. He has just finished a post-graduate study at the National University of Public Service as Senior Military Leader in July 2017. In his last position he worked at the German Army Command and was responsible for the development of Army C2 Systems and Interoperability of Land Forces.

Jeffrey KAPLAN, PhD

kaplan@uwosh.edu

Dr. Kaplan was a Professor at Jilin University in Changchun, China. He has written more than a dozen books and published seventy articles in the field of religious violence and religiously motivated terrorism. In the autumn of 2017 he will move to the King Fahd Security College in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia as a Security Studies Professor.

1st Lt. (Res.) Roland Kiss

roland.kiss.us@gmail.com

1st Lt. Roland Kiss is a reserve officer of the HDF and a PhD student of the National University of Public Service. His main research areas are the Asia-Pacific strategy of the United States and the US armed forces.

Col. (Ret.) Friedrich W. KORKISCH, PhD

fredkorkisch@yahoo.com

Col. Ret. (Air Force Staff, Aerial Warfare and Space Affairs 1972-2002); lecturer at the Government Strategic Leadership Course since 2004; member of the Austrian Delegation to the CSCS/OSCE, Vienna, (Ministry of Foreign Affairs), and Military Adviser to the OSCC (1991-2002); member of the NATO Air Defence Committee; member of the Science Board of the MoD, and former Chairman for Strategic and Security Policy; Director Center for Foreign and Security Policy, Vienna; Member of the Board of Europäisches Forum Alpbach; attended the University of Vienna (Political Science and International Law); Santa Barbara City College, CA; National Univ. of Public Service/Zrinyi Miklos, Budapest; Alumni of the NESU/National Defence University, Washington DC, etc. Numerous publications; currently Visiting Prof. Macro Economics, Corvinus, Univ., Budapest; resident of Vienna, Austria, and Santa Barbara, CA, USA.

PÉTER MARTON, PhD

peter.marton@uni-corvinus.hu

Péter Marton is Associate Professor at Corvinus University's Institute of International Studies (and Deputy Head of the Institute). His research fields are Foreign Policy Analysis and Security Studies – his specific research areas include the politics of foreign military missions and international burden-sharing.

János MATUS, DSc

matus.janos@upcmail.hu

János Matus earned his degree of “Doctor of the Hungarian Academy of Sciences” with the thesis entitled “Problems of Economy, Security and Interdependence in Different Schools of the Theory of International Relations” in 2005. Between 1997 and 2008 he taught courses related to international security at the Hungarian National Defence University. By now he is on pension, and teaches courses on Globalization.

György NÓGRÁDI, CSc

gyorgy.nogradi@uni-corvinus.hu

György Nógrádi, CSc, is a university professor at Corvinus University. He earned his MA in economics with a specialization on international relations in 1972. Holds his doctoral degree in economy (1974) and habilitated in military sciences in 1986 at Zrínyi Miklós Military University. He is conducting research on international relations, macro economy, defence economy, and security policy.

Lt. Gen. Zoltán OROSZ, PhD

hvkfh@hm.gov.hu

Lt. Gen. Zoltán Orosz, PhD, is the Deputy Chief of Staff of the Hungarian Defence Forces, holding his doctoral degree in Military Sciences from the National University of Public Service since 2012. As Deputy Chief of Staff, he is the Head of the Scientific Committee of the General Staff of HDF. His main research areas are Aeronautical and Aviation Science and Science Management.

Gen. Petr PAVEL

General Pavel is the Chairman of the NATO Military Committee from May 2015. He was educated in the Army College in Vyskov, the King's College, London, the Staff College, Camberley and the Royal College of Defence Studies, London. He served the Czech Republic in many positions within the special forces, military intelligence and military diplomacy.

Nóra PÁKOZDI

pakozdi.nora@hm.gov.hu

Miss Pákozdi's field of research is the operation of Middle-Eastern terrorist organizations and the aspects concerning Europe (migration, process of radicalization, the spread of radical ideology, the relations between terrorism and organized crime). She was a student of International Relations studies at Corvinus University of Budapest, with specialization in European governance, and continued her studies at the National University of Public Service's Master's course in international security and defence policy. Besides, she is a member of the Radicalisation Awareness Network and the president of the Hungarian Youth Atlantic Council (HYAC).

Marcell György PINTÉR

pinter.marcell@gmail.com

Currently he attends Eötvös Lóránd University, Faculty of Humanities, studying Oriental Languages and Cultures, Chinese Studies. Since 2017, he has been an intern at Hungarian Defence Forces General Staff Scientific Research Centre. He speaks seven languages (Hungarian as a native language, English, German, Chinese, French, Spanish, Arabic), and he is particularly interested in various peoples' historical and modern cultures, politics, and relations.

Bg. Gen. Imre PORKOLÁB, PhD

imre.porkolab@act.nato.int

Brigadier General Imre Porkolab, PhD, is currently serving as NATO Supreme Allied Commander Transformation's representative to the Pentagon. His duties include aligning US and NATO ACT efforts with the Joint Staff, DoD, as well as liaising with the Think Tank community in Washington DC. As a Special Forces officer by trade, he has done operational tours in Iraq and Afghanistan and has served in the Hungarian Defence Forces at different command and leadership positions. He holds three master's degrees (International Relations, Military Leadership and Defence Analysis) and a PhD. His research includes organizational transformation and change leadership.

Col. (Ret.) Zdzisław ŚLIWA, PhD

zdzislaw.sliwa@baltdefcol.org

Col. Sliwa is the Dean of the Baltic Defence College in Tartu, Estonia and the professor of the University of Lower Silesia in Wrocław. He was educated in the Polish National Defence University, the US Army Command and General Staff College, and in the Center of Strategic Studies of the People's Liberation Army National Defence University in Beijing. He served as the Chief of Operational Branch J-3 in the KFOR Headquarters in Kosovo and also the Chief of Operational Planning Branch J-5, Polish Armed Forces Operational Command in Warsaw, and hold positions in military educational institutions. He has published books and papers related to current developments in Asia and Europe with the focus on the East Europe especially in relation to security dimension.

Lt. Col. Endre SZÉNÁSI

endre.szenasi@mod.gov.hu

Lt. Col. Endre Szénási works for the Defence Policy Department of the Hungarian Ministry of Defence as a senior desk officer. As a professional Hungarian Army officer since 1989, he has a field artillery background. He has a postgraduate Master's degree in the field of security and defence policy from Miklós Zrínyi National Defence University in Budapest. He has been responsible for several policy areas at the Defence Policy Department since 1997, mainly for partnerships. His has been responsible for the post-Soviet region since 2002. Since 2015 he has also been involved in policy issues of the military dimension of handling the migration crisis affecting Europe.

Lt. Col. Tamás SZVATH

tamas.szvath@airn.nato.int

szvath@mil.hu

Lt. Col. Tamás Szvath currently works at the allied Headquarters Air Command (AIRCOM) Ramstein, Germany, as an Airspace Manager. Since 1989 he has served in different level positions of the Hungarian Air Force and the General Staff as a fighter pilot, subject matter expert, and senior air staff officer. Over the past decade he was responsible for managing all fixed-wing related training issues of the Hungarian Air Force with special attention to the international cooperation and bilateral training programs. As a Gripen training program manager responsible for all follow-on trainings – including the Hungarian JAS-39 Training Needs Analysis program – he was a key player in the planning and coordination of the multinational Gripen Air-to-Air Refuelling training, in the establishment of the Hungarian AAR capability.

Lt. Col. Zsolt VÉGVÁRI

kraius@kraius.hu

Lt. Col. Zsolt Végvári is a senior engineer officer in the HDF Logistics Centre/Research & Development, Science and Standardization Department. He has had a Master's Degree in electrical engineering from the Technical University of Budapest since 2000, and now he is a PhD student at the Military Engineering Doctoral School of the National University of Public Service. He is the National Representative of Energy and Environment Working Group and CapTec Group Systems of EDA and Smart Energy Training and Assessment Camp of NATO. He frequently publishes scientific articles. His special interests are communication technology and electrical energy issues.

Péter WAGNER, PhD

peter.wagner@ifat.hu

Péter Wagner is a senior research fellow at the Institute of Foreign Affairs and Trade, and an Assistant Professor at Károli Gáspár University. His research covers transatlantic issues, Hungarian foreign and security policy, international terrorism and current challenges in the Middle East and Central Asia, regions he visits frequently. Peter Wagner holds a PhD in History on the Emergence of Islamism in Post-Soviet Central Asia. He is quoted and interviewed regularly by the Hungarian media on current security policy issues.